MEMORIAL FOREST IN VERMONT Donated to Yale Forestry School in Honor of a War Hero.

New Haven, Conn., March 25 .- Five undred acres of land near Mount Holly, Vt., to be deeded sill be school of Forestry in April will be called the Bowen Memorial forest in memory of Lieut. Joseph Brown Bowen. '17 F., an aviator, who was killed in action in France on Sept. 7, 1918. It is planned to chisel a suitable commemorative inscription on a large boulder located on a bill within the forest, and to surround this with plantation of conifers.

The Bowen Memorial forest will be ocated on the summit of the Green ountain range midway between Belows Falls and Rutland, Vt. The land is one-third open pasture, and the remainder partly occupied by spruce and balsam and partly covered by stands of maple, beech and birch. Production of spruce will be the aim of the management.

The donors, have provided a fund of $5,000 as an endowment, and an additional sum for planting the open pasture land.

"INVESTMENT BANKING."

Subject of Address at Middlebury College By F. A. Simmons.

Middlebury, March 25 .- F. A. Simmone, treasurer of Harris, Forbes & bury college, class of '02, delivered a lecture on "Investment Banking" to the students of Middlebury college on Thur-day afternoon. The lecture was the tenth of the vocational guidance series being held under the direction of Dean Edgar J. Wiley.
Mr. Simmons divided financial activities into four classes: Banking, promoting, brokerage and investments. investment banking, Mr. Simmons said, consists in the fact that the broker merely buys or sells securities upon his clients' orders without bearing any respensibility, for security. The value of C. D. Keenau of Rutland has been in the fact that he does take responsible out over to the May term of Unitable States district court on the charge ings are safer and more dependable of having liquor in his possession coutrary to law.
